Ninja High School ™&©1991 Ben Dunn

Ben Dunn's Been Busy

Fans who've wanted more comics from writer/artist Ben Dunn will have their dreams fulfilled in late March and April from Eternity. Kicking things off is Beams, Steam and Automobiles, the third NHS graphic novel. It's our cover feature this week and should be in shops any day now.

Ninja High School turns 25 in April which is quite an achievement for a black and white comic. The story features the return of Zetman and Eternity warns that babysitting was never like this! It carries a $2.25 price.

Anyone who has missed out on Ben Dunn's work because they don't read many black and white comics will be officially out of excuses with the release of his Prom Formula #1 in full color in April. This is an all-new NHS mini-series and is a great way for new readers to familiarize themselves with one of the best American "manga" comics around. The Zaron princess returns with a sinister plot to turn the population of the earth into babies. This is the first appearance of NHS in color and will sell for $2.50.

Maintaining Terminator Excitement a Primary Objective at Dark Horse

Dark Horse comics Terminator limited series last year proved that the Terminator could be an exciting, vibrant comic book is just handled properly. This year, Dark Horse is ready to demonstrate that they can maintain that excitement with a new series, Terminator: Secondary Objectives, featuring artwork by fan-favorite Paul Gulacy.

Terminator: Secondary Objectives picks up where the first Dark Horse Terminator series left off. In this story, the remnants of the band of heroes try to prevent the remaining Terminator from completing his secondary objective: the death of Sarah Connor. He isn't working alone, though: a brand new Terminator has arrived on the scene to complicate matters even more.

Terminator: Secondary Objectives is written by James Robinson, who wrote London's Dark for Titan Publications; it will be illustrated by Paul Gulacy and inker Robert Ian. "James is a talented new writer, editor Diana Schutz said, "and he has delivered a tight script tailored to Paul's strengths as a penciller. The line work on the two issues we've received so far is breathtaking."

Gulacy will also supply painted covers for all four issues of the limited series. Dark Horse is confident that this limited series will appear on time, simply because the creators are so excited about what they're doing. "To date, I have the final scripts for the first three issues in-house," Schutz said, "as well as the completed pencils to the second issue. The team seems to be very enthusiastic about their work and that always translates into better comics for everyone!"

Terminator: Secondary Objectives #1, the $2.50 debut issue of the four-issue full-color limited series, is scheduled for June release. The series will be published monthly.

Star Trek: Mirror Universe Gives Fans Chance To Reflect on Past Glories

Star Trek's 25th Anniversary is approaching this fall, and that's going to focus a lot of attention on Star Trek exploits past and present. As a part of the celebration, DC has chosen one of its most popular Star Trek storylines from the first run of the Star Trek series and will collect that storyline into a trade paperback this spring. Star Trek: The Mirror Universe Saga, a 192-page trade paperback, features an eight-part storyline written by Mike W. Barr and illustrated by Tom Sutton and Ricardo Villagran.

This 1984-85 comic book series-within-a-series featured the return of the evil counterparts of the Enterprise crew, who have crossed the dimensional breach to wreak havoc in Federation space. Only the real Enterprise crew can stop them--but they may have to sacrifice themselves to do it...

Star Trek: The Mirror Universe Saga will feature a new cover by Ken Christie and an introduction by Star Trek novelist A.C. Crispin. The book, priced at $19.95, is scheduled for April 18th release.

Nosferatu Reincarnated For New Series

"Vampires of folklore, as opposed to those of fiction, didn't haunt castle battlements in opera cloaks pontificating about children of the night--they shambled forth from moldy graves with dried blood caked on their faces. They were ugly, they smelled bad, and they were not sophisticated by any standards!"

And that,according to Millennium Comics publisher Paul Davis, is the crucial difference between most vampire tales and Millennium's upcoming Nosferatu: Plague of Terror, a four-issue monthly miniseries produced in a duotone format.

In a recent article in Entertainment Weekly, the original silent film was described as "the closest the movies have ever come to the feel of a nightmare." According to Davis, "Orlock, the Nosferatu of the title, was described as 'No ladies man, but a stark, staring creature from hell.' Both descriptions sum up the feel and execution of Nosferatu: Plague of Terror."

The new Nosferatu series isn't an adaptation of the expressionistic film classic--Tome Press is publishing an adaptation this spring--but is instead both a prequel and a sequel to the film.

"When we first conceived the project," Davis said, "we discussed, then discarded, the idea of doing an adaptation. The movie, though it's undeniably a classic, is essentially a retelling of Dracula...we opted for an original story. For the continuitists, the events of the film (which are briefly alluded to) can be squeezed in between panels early in issue two." Therefore, the first issue and part of the second will present crucial events that occurred prior to the famous film, while the remainder of the story will continue Nosferatu's story after the film's end.

The series is being scripted by Mark Ellis, who wanted to make the conflict between Nosferatu and his adversaries a bit more memorable than the conflict found in the typical vampire story. "Usually, the protagonists are nothing but screaming, brutalized victims. In this series, Orlock is opposed by Sir William Longsword, a 13th century knight he made immortal for his own nefarious purposes. Aiding him (after the second issue) is Bronwyn Callan, a no-nonsense doctor who is very concerned about an outbreak of bubonic plague in her city."

Nosferatu: Plague of Terror will be illustrated by Rik Levins and inker Robert Lewis. The book won't be a standard black-and-white comic--but neither will it be a full-color book. Instead, Innovation is experimenting with a technique very popular overseas but rarely used in America (although both Ms. Tree and Why I Hate Saturn, among others, have made use of it): duotone printing. The book will be printed in black and blue on white paper. "We're going for high contrast effect," creative director Melissa Martin said, "emphasizing heavy blacks and various shades of blue."

The series has a strong appeal on the basic horror level and the psychological level as well. Insofar as horror is concerned, publisher Davis said, "Orlock strikes a very primal chord. He represents the non-romantic view of the Undead (which 'Nosferatu' means), the ghastly reality of the legends, if you will." But on a deeper level, the story takes on a greater significance. "Orlock is the personification, the champion of all that's dark in the human psyche. He's not so much interested in devouring blood as he is in shattering souls. He's a symbol of strife, bloodshed, and disease."

Nosferatu: Plague of Terror #1, a monthly four-issue limited series debuting in May, is priced at $2.50 per issue.

GHOST RIDER BRIGHTENS UP MAY LINE-UP

Okay, you've heard about gold ink, silver ink, neon-color inks--maybe you think that there isn't any other kind of ink out there, huh? Well, think again, folks, because Marvel's found a new ink that's sure to be an eye-catcher! Are you ready for glow-in-the-dark flourescent ink?! You'd better be, because that's what Marvel is using on the cover to Ghost Rider #15, scheduled for May 16th release. This issue will feature the conclusion of the Johnny Blaze storyline that began in mid-March. As you can see, the cover is a real attention-getter on its own--but imagine how much more attention it's going to get when it takes on an eerie luminosity!... Ghost Rider #15 is produced by the fan-fave team of Howard Mackie and Mark Texeira (who is also the cover artist).

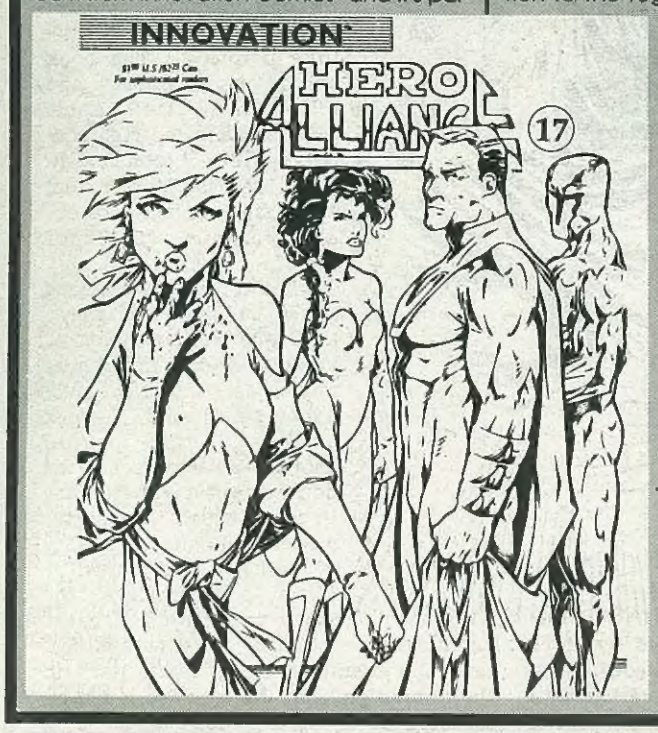
WARGAMERS SURE NOT TO TAKE OFFENSE AT GDW'S NEW GAME

One of the bloodiest conflicts of all time has now been turned into a boardgame by the people at Game Designers Workshop. Tet Offensive: 1968 is a new boardgame that details the massive push that became a pivotal battle in the Vietnam War. This is quite an impressive game, with over 300 playing pieces in four different sizes. The game requires two or more players and offers a variety of tactical situations for the experienced gamer. Packaged in a specially designed oversized box, Tet Offensive: 1968 retails out at $40.00.

HERE COME THE HEROES

Hero Alliance is the best-known superhero team from Innovation Comics--and it's particularly well-remembered by some fans as the book that featured some of fan-fave artist Bart Sears' first superhero work (well before he became such a hit on Justice League Europe). As it turns out, all of Sears' Hero Alliance artwork hasn't been seen by his fans; at least one cover remained unused for quite a while. It finally comes to light this April, when Hero Alliance: The Sentry Special #1 hits the stands complete with the long-unseen Bart Sears-Bill Anderson cover. The story in this special issue brings to light new info on The Sentry's methods and abilities--but it won't reveal just who the Sentry is (not yet, anyway). The Sentry faces the revitalized villain Sepulchre, who is determined to overcome his earlier "joke" status by going on a killing spree to prove his ruthless nature. Robert Ingersoll, Ted Naifeh, and Scott Rockwell bring the Sentry's first solo adventure to life.

As it turns out, April is going to be quite a landmark month for Hero Alliance: in addition to the regular book and the Sentry Special, Innovation also debuts the first issue of a second ongoing Hero Alliance series. Hero Alliance Quarterly will feature two stories in each issue, focusing on various members of the Hero Alliance family. The first issue leads off with a story featuring Kris, Tawny, and Renyatta--as illustrated by George Broderick, Matt Thompson, and the ever-popular George Perez. Perez not only works on the lead story, but he also contributes the eye-catcher of a cover for the book. The second story, a solo story exploring the truth behind Kris' powers, is produced by Michael Buckley and J. Trent Pearson. Mark Jones supplies a character portfolio that fills out the $2.75 comic.



SOLAR FLARES UP WITH BARRY WINDSOR-SMITH ART

All you fans that can't wait to read the upcoming Magnus Robot Fighter book, hold on to your hat--this summer Valiant comics is releasing the second title in its super hero line: a revival of Solar, Man of the Atom. The series is to be titled simply, Solar, and will feature the same creative team that is producing the Magnus book--Jim Shooter writing, with layouts by Don Perlin and art by Art Nichols and Bob Layton. But the first eight issues will feature a special treat--Barry Windsor-Smith! As the center-spread for the first eight issues, Barry Windsor-Smith will be contributing a serialized story that will be the equivalent of Solar #0--that is to say the issue of the comic that takes place before Solar #1. The center-spread is being specially designed by Smith so that it folds out in such a manner that all four pages will be viewable at the same time--in effect creating giant sized comic pages. A special binder is planned to be released that will allow the pages that form Solar #0 to be placed into it in such a way that they will be more easily viewed. Solar is due out sometime in early summer.

DRACULA RAISES HELL--OR VICE VERSA

How did Dracula become Dracula? That is, how did a Transylvanian folk figure who was notorious for his extreme cruelty and depravity become the Lord of the Undead? Folk historians can trace the development of the legends--but leave it to Rickey Shanklin, Neil Vokes, and Pat Broderick to give comic book fans the real story on how a malevolent human being can become the most powerful vampire on Earth. That's what they're featuring in Dracula in Hell, a new adult miniseries that shows how Vlad Dracul dealt with the devil himself to become the figure that he is today. Tim Vigil, acclaimed horror artist, contributes the cover for the first issue. Dracula in Hell #1, a $2.50 comic, is scheduled for May release.

GAME DESIGNERS LATEST IS OUT TO GET YOU

If you've been waiting for a game that covered two different game genres in one box, than GDW has the game for you--Dark Conspiracy. Dark Conspiracy is a new game system that sets horror role-playing in the bleak near-future of an industrialized wasteland. This gaming system is completely compatible with GDW's Twilight:2000 system and allows players to utilize the already existing support modules for that game. Dark Conspiracy is a massive 208 page volume that details all of the rules to get you started, for only $20.00. And to top it all off, the game is sporting a terrific Larry Elmore cover!

JUDGE DREDD'S A REAL HARD CASE

Judge Dredd's Hardcase Papers, a four-volume prestige-format series beginning this May, offers Dredd fans a chance to enjoy some of the most difficult cases that Judge Dredd has ever dealt with. Each issue will feature fully painted color--and in most cases, these stories have never been seen in any full-color form before, making 'em a real treat for Dredd fans. Judge Dredd's Hardcase Papers begins in May and continues through the summer months; each volume is priced at $5.95.

Beginning in June, Judge Dredd will be featured in another new publication: Judge Dredd: The Megazine, a 48-page prestige-format comic book that will feature all new stories never before seen in the United States. Some of the contributors to this book are quite well known in the US, though; they include Alan Grant, Garth Ennis, John Wagner, Jim Baike, and Cam Kennedy. *Judge Dredd: The Megazine will be published on a bi-monthly basis; it will be joined later this year by a fourth Judge Dredd ongoing title, Dredd Rules.

So what else is in the works for Judge Dredd? Well, the John Wagner-Simon Bisley Batman-Judge Dredd crossover book, Judgement of Gotham, is all but finished, and is tentatively scheduled for fall release; Howard Chaykin has finished a movie script for the Judge Dredd film, which is in preproduction by 20th Century Fox for a summer 1992 release; and Surge Licensing, the company who helped make the Teenage Mutant Ninja Turtles some of the best-known comic characters in the world, is handling the Judge Dredd licensing; among other things, you can look for a full line of action figures due in 1992.

IT'S HARD TO ERADICATE THE ERADICATOR

When the new Superman title, Superman: Man of Steel, debuts in May, it'll kick off a four-part extra-length storyline that'll run through all four Superman titles. Entitled "Revenge of the Krypton Man," this 120+ page extravaganza will bring back the Eradicator, the Kryptonian artifact that Superman thought he was rid of when he buried it in the middle of the sun. Not only is the Eradicator back, but so is Krypton Man, the being Superman became under the Eradicator's influence. Since Superman shows no interest in becoming the Krypton Man, the new Krypton Man has decided he will kill Superman and assume his destiny as the Last Son of Krypton!

Can things get any worse for Superman? Well, yes; you see, the yellow sun is turning red, thanks to the Eradicator. Furthermore, the solar change is wreaking havok with earth's climate--and that threatens Clark's parents, who are in the middle of a sea cruise!

The multi-part storyline begins in Superman: Man of Steel #1 on May 16th (courtesy of writer Louise Simonson and artists Jon Bogdanove, Brett Breeding, Dennis Janke, Dan Jurgens, Bob McLeod, and Jerry Ordway); it then continues into May 23rd's Superman #57 (written by Dan Jurgens and illustrated by Jerry Ordway, Jon Bodganove, Tom Grummett, Dennis Janke, Dan Jurgens, Brett Breeding, and classic Superman artist Curt Swan); from there, it goes to Adventures of Superman #480 on May 30th (written by Jerry Ordway and Illustrated by Dan Jurgens, Jon Bogdanove, Brett Breeding, Tom Grummett, Bob Mcleod, Jerry Ordway, and Curt Swan); it all wraps up on June 6th in Action Comics #667 (written by Roger Stern and illustrated by Bob McLeod, Dan Jurgens, Jon Bogdanove, Kerry Gammill, and Dennis Janke). "whew!" That's four writers and nine artists involved in this multi-parter! (Incidentally,did you know that Jon Bogdanove's son is named Kal-el? Now that's a Superman fan...)

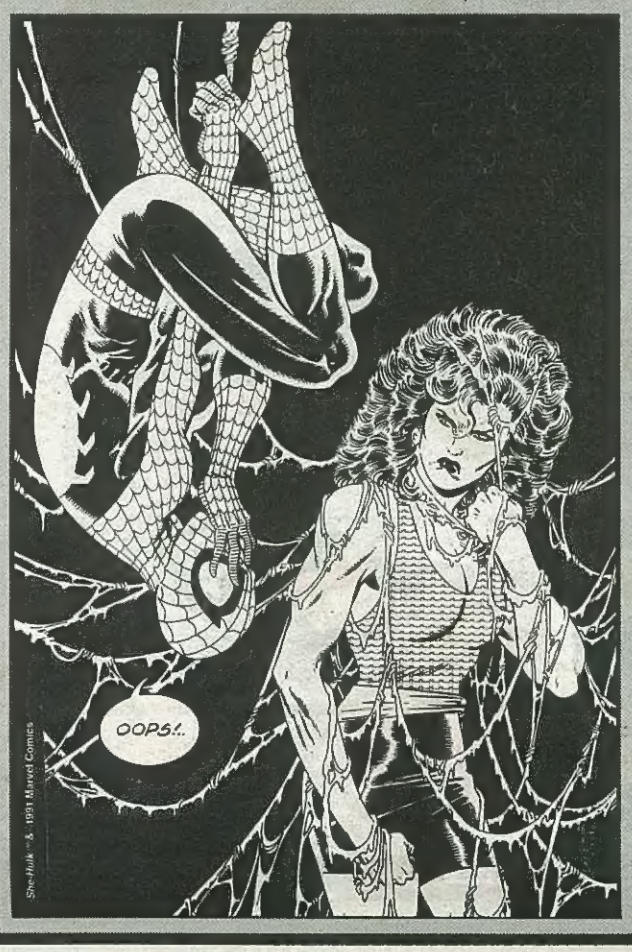
SHE-HULK INVITES SPECIAL GUESTS TO HELP WELCOME BYRNE BACK

John Byrne is returning to She-Hulk! Fans who loved Byrne's early issues of the series (and have lamented that subsequent writers have never managed to capture the iconoclastic humor of those stories) will be pleased to hear that Byrne will be back as of She-Hulk #31, on sale in July. In the meantime, writer Louise Simonson and artists Rik Levins and Jimmy Sanders will bring in some special guests for the last two pre-Byrne issues, helping to bring readers back to the book again prior to Byrne's return. Spider-Man, Wolverine, the Hulk, and popular villain Venom guest-star in a two-parter in She-Hulk #29 and #30; the storyline deals with a mad scientist who believes he is from another universe. Fan-fave artist Mike Zeck supplies the cover for She-Hulk #29, the first issue of the two-parter; look for it on May 9th.



STEVE MONCUSE, I PRESUME?

Have you been wondering what to do with your time now that Steve Moncuse has finished up his Fish Police saga? Well, wonder no more! Malibu Graphics has just signed a contract with Montcuse to produce Living Stone Mountain, a new ongoing series written and drawn by Moncuse. Not a lot of information on the series is available at this time, but we do know that it involves "guys and dragons," according to Malibu Graphics publisher Dave Olbrich, so expect a fantasy slant on the series. One other thing has been mentioned, the name of Art Adams. It seems that Adams and Montcuse have enjoyed their past collaborations enough that Adams is considering doing some work on Living Stone Mountain--and everybody knows what a hot commodity anything that Art Adams touches is, right?...

MEET THE KID FLASH--NO KIDDIN'!

In the DC Universe, the current Flash is the former Kid Flash, Wally West. In the tv-universe of the Flash series, however, the Flash is still Barry Allen, and there is no Kid Flash--but there soon will be. In The Flash TV Special #1, a $3.95 80-page comic scheduled for May 30th release, fans get a chance to "Meet Kid Flash" when a lab accident gives a malicious street punk super-speed. This story will be written by Mark Waid and illustrated by David Williams (who'll also be the artist on the upcoming Jaguar series from DC's Impact Comics line) and Gary Martin. As CSN has already told you, the lead story, written by John Byrne and illustrated by Javier Saltares, has the Flash facing a vengeful spirit who is murdering STAR Labs scientists. There will also be a variety of Flash pin-ups from Carmine Infantino, Joe Kubert (who inked Infantino's art on the first Flash appearance, incidentally), Brian Bolland, and others. It'll be easy to recognize--that full-color cover photo featuring John Wesley Shipp in his Flash costume should be a sure give-away...

GAMES WORKSHOP IS CHARMED TO PRESENT A NEW TALISMAN EXPANSION

After almost two years since Talisman City, Games Workshop is preparing to release Talisman Dragons. Talisman Dragons expands out the basic Talisman game even farther, allowing for new characters, new spells and equipment, new adventure cards, and, of course, the addition of Dragons into the game! Talisman Dragons joins Talisman Adventure, Expansion, Dungeon, Timescape, and City to become the seventh box in this game set, and every one of them have been gems so far! Talisman is by far one of the most detailed boardgames available, and the new expansion is set to retail at $18.95. So, keep an eye out for Dragons, because they might be hard to find!

IN THE CITY...

Maybe you feel like you really know your town. Well, maybe you do--but not like Polis. Polis has one important edge: he's a street druid, a man mystically linked with his city. He feels its movements, he knows its habits and its methods. Polis knows everything that goes on in his city. So when Dave Case's care is towed, only Polis is aware that there's more behind it than what seems apparent. Polis is a new series written by Ed Fuqua and illustrated with grey-toned line-art by Al Bigley. The first issue of this new title from Brave New Words is slated for April release. Polis #1 is priced at $2.95.

YEAH, BUT WHERE'S THE GUY WITH THE BIG EARS?...

Games Workshop is offering a new alternative for Warhammer 40K gamers this April with the release of the Battlefleet Gothic Game. This is the same massive boardgame that Games Workshop offered a few months ago, but this time they mean it! The game offers an opportunity for players to take their grievances to the skies and play out the battles in space using the ship-to-ship combat rules developed for this expansion. The boxed set includes dozens of plastic miniatures to provide the icons for the battlefield, as well as the new space combat rules. And at the price of $47.95 this is a sure fire hot ticket item. I just want to know what this game has to do with the whole Gothic motif...

DARK PHOENIX HAS RESIN FROM THE DEAD

Horizon Hobbies has offered a wide range of popular Marvel superhero model kits, including the Hulk kit cover-featured on CSN a few months ago, This May, they continue their series of Marvel offerings with a kit sure to be one of their most popular ever: Dark Phoenix. This kid stands a full 12" tall and depicts Dark Phoenix in her malevolent glory. The same month, Horizon will also offer a Thor model kit. This kit is also a full foot tall. Both Dark Phoenix and Thor are priced at $29.95 apiece; as with all specialty items of this sort, be sure to let your local comic shop know that you're interested--and tell 'em that your heard about it in CSN, okay?...

KANE
BATMAN
BY LOEBS, CINFA & NYBERG
WHEN DVORAK IS WRIT LARGE, PILLAGE IS SPELLED WITH A 'Y'!
? THE RIDDLER
3-24-91
A RIDDLE CLAIMING TO DISCLOSE A ROBBERY...
SENDS THE POLICE INTO A TRAP.
MUSIC BOX
BRUCE'S WOUND ISN'T HEALED YET. I DON'T THINK HE'S STRONG ENOUGH TO GO UP AGAINST A GANG OF ROBBERS ALONE.
ALAS, MASTER BRUCE DOES NOT ALWAYS SEE COMMON SENSE AS HIS FRIEND.
BRUCE HAS FORBIDDEN ME TO BE ROBIN ON MY OWN. HE'D BE MAD IF I DISOBEYED..
TRUE. AND HE WOULD BE FURIOUS IF I AIDED YOU...
I'LL GET THE CAR WARMED UP.
AND I'LL GET INTO MY COSTUME!
I THINK I KNOW WHY BATMAN CHOSE THE COMPUTER TRADE SHOW AS THE PLACE BEING ROBBED..
THE RIDDLER'S CLUE REFERS TO DVORAK, BUT 'DVORAK' ISN'T JUST THE COMPOSER...
IT'S ALSO THE NAME FOR A SPECIAL ARRANGEMENT OF KEYS ON A TYPEWRITER OR COMPUTER!
THEN THE 'Y' WOULD REFER TO THAT KEY AS WELL?
THAT'S HOW I'M BETTING. STAY HERE. WE CAN'T LET THE WAYNE LIMOUSINE BE SEEN TOO CLOSE TO BATMAN!
THIS WINDOW'S LIGHTED, LET'S SEE IF...
NO!
BATMAN!

BATMAN™ by Loebs, Infantino & Nyberg

BATMAN ORDERED ME TO STAY AT HOME, BUT... NO!
POW!
HE'S GETTING AWAY... BUT BATMAN'S IN BAD SHAPE! HE NEEDS HELP!
CONGRATULATIONS! YOU'VE MANAGED TO OPEN YOUR WOUND AGAIN. HOW CHARMING!
THE BOY DISOBEYED ME... THE RIDDLER ESCAPED.
AND HE ONLY SAVED YOUR LIFE IN THE PROCESS! WHAT A WRETCHED, WILLFUL LITTLE SCAMP HE IS!
WHAT PUNISHMENT COULD BE SEVERE ENOUGH? BRING OUT THE THUMBSCREWS! BREAD AND WATER FOR SUPPER!
ALFRED...!
IF YOU INJURE YOURSELF AGAIN, YOU MAY LOSE THAT ARM! YOU MAY DIE!
BUT... THE RIDDLER ESCAPED! I HAVE TO...
REST. AT LEAST LET THE BOY TRY TO FIND THIS FELLOW. HE CAN'T DO ANY WORSE!
ALFRED, YOU CAN BE REPLACED.
I THINK NOT.
MASTER DICK ...HAVE YOU FINISHED YOUR HOMEWORK?
SURE HAVE.
HAVE YOU CLEANED YOUR ROOM?
YEP.
THEN IT'S TIME FOR YOU TO CATCH THE RIDDLER!
GOOD BOY.
YOU BET!
MMM. A GERALD NOCK RENTED THE THEATER FOR THE NIGHT OF THAT FAKE CONCERT!
AND AN AGNES P. NOCK SUPPLIED THE GIANT TYPEWRITER ...FREE!
SO?
SO THAT MAKES IT A NOCK, NOCK JOKE... A RIDDLE!
BUT MASTER DICK... EVEN IF THE RIDDLER DID RENT THE THEATER AND SUPPLY THE GIANT TYPEWRITER...?
IT MEANS HE'S SUDDENLY REAL RICH...
AND YET, ACCORDING TO THESE RECORDS, HE WAS ALWAYS A PETTY CROOK.
SOMEHOW HE GOT MONEY, AND THAT 'SOMEHOW' IS THE ANSWER TO THE RIDDLE!

NONE MAY ENTER THE SACRED GRROUNDS!
WURF!
GONCH
HA!
THEY ARE SO PROTECTIVE OF THE TREE.
THEY SHOULD BE, MASTER--THERE'S NOT A FIRE HYDRANT IN SIGHT...!
NO...! GAEA...
...IS OURS...!
CHILL OUT, ROVER!
GAEA...? HMMM...
BONK
...GUESS THEIR BARK WAS WORSE THAN THEIR BITE...!
SPEAKING OF BARK...
YES, LEONARDO... THE TREE. THEY CALLED THEIR TREE-
--GAEA.
YES, BUT GAEA IS NOT THEIRS --IT IS OURS!
